

General Data Protection Regulation (“GDPR”)

The General Data Protection (“GDPR”) applies to the collection and use of personal information of European Union members, some of which is collected by Association for Glycogen Storage Disease (“AGSD”) by your use of our website (such as cookies, IP addresses, etc.) and some of which may be submitted voluntarily by you.

We Value Your Privacy

We understand that you may just want to browse our website (“Site”) without providing detailed medical information, and that’s okay. The purpose of the Site is to educate and serve as a resource for glycogen storage disease patients, families and caregivers. When you visit the Site, AGSD and our partners use cookies and other methods to process data, provide analytics, monitor Site traffic, and respond to information that you provide on the Site.

Please click “I agree” below to acknowledge that you consent to this use of your information and that you have reviewed our Terms of Use and Privacy Policy.

Your Privacy Rights

Under the GDPR, you have certain privacy rights, including:

1. Access. You have the right to access any personal information about you that we or our partners store or use and understand why and how we are using it. You have a right to a timely response to this request
2. Correction. You have the right to request that we modify your data that is incorrect or needs updating.
3. Erasure. You have the right to ask that we delete your personal information. If you request this, we will evaluate any request on a case-by-case basis and respond to you.

If you would like to exercise any of these rights, including to withdraw your consent, please contact us at:
